

Combat Dynamics Group

Creating dangerous Americans

Buddy Tactics Event Synopsis

Scope: The purpose of this 3-day Buddy Tactics event is to give people who are frequently in each other's company an opportunity to understand, practice, and apply the dynamics of operating as a small self-contained defensive force in order to survive a potentially violent conflict.

The vast majority of firearms/tactics training is focused on single operator. To a lesser extent a person can find "team tactics" courses. These courses are generally scaled for teams of 5 or more, and often focus on multiple teams operating in concert. Such a format does not address a smaller, less military oriented group, such a husband and wife, or a couple of guys hanging out together.

Examples of people who will benefit from Buddy Tactics training are:

- Husband and Wife
- Boyfriend and girlfriend
- Father and son (of age)
- Mother and daughter (of age)
- You and a close friend with whom often spend time.
- You and the couple of pals with whom you are often out on the town

Example #1: You and your [fill in the blank] have just come out of movie that ended at almost midnight. The parking lot is nearly empty. As you cross the lot toward your car, 3 obvious gangsters come out of the shadows and it is clear they intend to intercept the two of you before you can reach your car. Their aggressive mannerism and rapid pace to intercept you telegraphs to you that they mean you no good.

Three aggressive gangsters (who almost certainly have done this before, making them repeat offenders) against you and [fill in the blank]. What's the game plan for you and your [fill in the blank] in order to effectively counter this threat and survive? What is your role? What is [fill in the blank] going to do? Who is armed? If so, with what? What do you do if none of you are armed? What to do if one is armed with a firearm and the other is not? What to do if both are armed with firearms? What about edged weapons? WHAT IS THE PREDETERMINED PLAN FOR THIS ENCOUNTER THAT YOU CAN PUT INTO ACTION WITH THAT PERSON UNDER THE EFFECTS OF FEAR AND ADRENALINE?

Example #2: You and [fill in the blank] are in a small store in the mall discussing an item of merchandise. Suddenly you hear loud shots and people begin screaming. Through the store's glass windows you can see people running by in panic. Suddenly a man walks past the glass – and then turns and enters the store you're in. As he turns to enter the store, you see he's holding shotgun and has blood on his shirt, and he is scanning the store with his eyes. WHAT IS YOUR PREVIOUSLY REHEARSED PLAN THAT YOU AND [FILL IN THE BLANK] CAN ACT UPON IMMEDIATELY TO SAVE YOUR LIVES?

Being a 1-man operator does not provide the best odds in some deadly confrontations, but there's something else to consider. Everything you've ever learned may go right out the window if your 17-year-old daughter is standing next to you when the shooting starts. Priorities can (and do) often change dramatically when a family member, or other person we're close with, is caught in the line of fire! Can you still fight and win? YES! But you need a plan and you need to know how to implement it. THAT is what BUDDY TACTICS will prepare you and those close to you for!

Day 1

The first day will be spent doing a lot of intensive shooting under close instruction of the staff. The goal is to get your marksmanship and speed both improving to maximum level that is possible for you.

In the afternoon we will work shooting while moving drills to get you comfortable doing both at the same time. The range paradigm of shooting while standing in one place in a Weaver or Isosceles stance will not serve you well in a real fight for your life on the street.

Day 2

The morning of day 2 will be spent shooting various scenarios, in 360-degree shooting bays, on static and reactive targets, both paper and steel. These scenarios will involve shooting in, from, and around buildings, as well as shooting in, from, and around vehicles. You will be using the “shooting on the move” skills you acquired/honed the day before. You will be problem solving in terms of distance, numbers, threat levels, and movement [where, when, and why]. THESE SCENARIOS WILL BE RUN WITH YOUR PARTNER(S)! YOU WILL EACH BE DOING SOMETHING. AND EACH OF YOU WILL BE CREATING PLANS AND IMPLIMENTING THEM DURING THIS TRAINING PROCESS! You need to learn how to plan, find out if those plans work (or don't), and become familiar and comfortable with each person's job when the shit hits the fan.

The afternoon of day 2 will be spent on the martial arts mats learning the principles of physical defense. This will not be a martial arts class! We cannot teach you martial arts of any consequence in 4 hours. But we can teach you some pretty slick moves that rely on understanding simple principles, both physical and mental. Remember, the goal is to survive so you can enjoy the rest of your life! The average person can succeed at that simply by understanding certain dynamics. We'll teach them to you!

Day 3

Day 3 will be spent exclusively training using “force-on-force” techniques. “Force-on-force” means you and your fellow students will be role-playing while using special guns that fire only paint bullets, and applying what you've learned (or think you've learned!) against other thinking, moving, students. This is the ultimate learning experience! Does your plan work FOR YOU? Does each person understand his or her role in a given situation, and adhere to it? Can your adversary easily disrupt your well-thought out plan? Do you need to fight to survive? If not, why do it??? Must you shoot to save yourself or another? If so, how do you implement that solution against a thinking, breathing, moving, adversary?

During day 3 our instructors will be taking you through real-life scenarios. The staff and your fellow students will be critiquing each scenario and each persons conduct as everyone executes their response to a deadly threat under pressure. Short of actually being shot at, this is as real as it gets!

Lectures

Punctuating all three days will be lectures by the staff that will prepare you to create and implement your plans as a “team”, rather than as an individual, which is what virtually everyone’s training has been. It requires an entirely different mindset!

Samples of subjects you’ll be exposed to during lectures:

- What if you’re with a child when the threat approaches?
- How to play “angles”.
- Can you shoot an unarmed adversary and sleep in your own bed that night?
- Is it an actual threat, or does it just look like a threat?
- When is your spouse an asset? When is your spouse a liability?
- Having your back – literally!
- How to shoot together - as a team - for maximum effect.
- Multiple adversaries; how many of them can I shoot, and when?
- Ambushing your aggressors!

Event Dates: May 19, 20 & 21

Event Location: Front Sight, NV. (Just outside Pahrump, NV. 45 mins from Las Vegas)

Cost: $400.00 per student. $700.00 for two.

Who Can Attend: Anyone! While we encourage people who spend time together to attend together, everyone is welcome and we’ll partner up individuals with others to create the necessary “Buddy” environment.

For an application and payment details email office@combatdynamics.net. (Website is currently under development.)